

STRONG SPEECHES FOR PROHIBITION

Heber J. Grant, Dr. Fuller and Francis M. Lyman Address Audience at Tabernacle.

DUTIES OF LEGISLATORS EVERY EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO SECURE LAWS.

Prohibition was the subject which held the attention of the 5,000 people at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon. The congregation was addressed by Apostle Heber J. Grant, the Rev. Louis S. Fuller and Apostle Francis M. Lyman, and the audience pledged itself to use every influence to compel the present legislature to pass a bill providing prohibition throughout the state. There was but one dissenting voice. When Heber J. Grant asked the audience to signify how they stood upon the question of prohibition, one man in the gallery announced that he was against the proposed resolution.

Mr. Grant thanked him for his honest expression of opinion, and stated that he was glad that there was but one in the audience who opposed the prohibition movement.

The Rev. L. S. Fuller, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league for Utah, Idaho and Wyoming, thanked the congregation for the opportunity which had been afforded him to speak. He said that the Anti-Saloon league is now thoroughly organized in every state and territory of the union. He told of the rapid spread of prohibition throughout the country, saying that fully two-thirds of the population of the United States is now under prohibitory laws, that through the operations of these laws, enough saloons have been put out of business to make a line seventy miles long, and that 5,000,000 quarts less whisky were sold in 1908 than during the previous year. He then demanded of the audience to know whether they would allow Utah to be the last state to offer protection to boys and young men.

Cannot Thwart Will of People.

He demanded to know whether it was possible for professional politicians to thwart the will of the people of Utah, who have shown themselves to be strongly in favor of prohibition movement.

He based his argument on the premise that if saloons are a good thing there should be more of them, while if they are not a good thing they should be abolished absolutely. Mr. Fuller said that he had been unable to find a man who would assert that he had been better, wiser, or nobler from patronizing saloons. He said that saloons tended to debauch, demoralize, debauch and degrade the youth of the community, and he read the figures compiled in Germany on the offspring and descendants of a notoriously drunken woman, which showed that there have among her descendants 7 murderers, 5 criminals, 6 beggars and 181 prostitutes.

Mr. Fuller spoke feelingly of the effect of the saloon on the moral and physical influence of the saloon toward bribery and corruption and how it fosters every other vice. He showed the influence of the saloon on the public purse resulting from saloons, and dubbed the saloon the economic robber of the community.

He said that the question of prohibition was the supreme issue before the legislature, and showed that the professional politicians could not afford to refuse it. He urged that every one stand firmly to support prohibition, regardless of religion in the common battle for the protection of the home and the preservation of men.

Heber J. Grant Speaks.

Heber J. Grant recited a portion of the temperance poem which he said he had learned as a boy and which had set him firmly in favor of prohibition. He said that he rejoiced that it was possible for the friends of prohibition to get together regardless of creed and as an example he read the terrible arraignment against the liquor traffic by Robert G. Ingersoll. He combated the theory that prohibition does not prohibit and showed that the advocates of this contention, pointing out that the brewers and distillers would not have expended large sums of money in fighting prohibitory laws unless the laws hurt their business. Mr. Grant then read expressions of opinion as to the liquor traffic and prohibition from the governors of many states of the union.

Apostle Grant spoke with scathing sarcasm on the consideration shown the liquor dealers on account of their wealth, and deplored the consideration shown to those who have millions to fight for the destruction of the saloon. He appealed to every voter to use all the influence within his power to force every legislator to pass prohibitory laws. He read the resolution passed by the members of the last conference of the Mormon church, in which they pledged themselves to use every effort to secure prohibition, and called for a vote on the resolution, and the entire audience cried "Aye," with the exception of one man.

Mr. Grant closed with the well-known temperance slogan, "Saloons cannot run without boys. Have you one to spare?"

Francis M. Lyman then spoke a few words, heartily endorsing the prohibition movement and urging the audience to take active measures to force the legislature to abolish the saloon.

Further advices received yesterday regarding the accident in the Western Pacific tunnel, seven miles west of Shafter, Nev., gave the names of the three men killed as Frank Becker, Charles O'Donnell and William Warren. Ashton Murnia and Charles O'Donnell were also seriously injured, and are in the company's hospital at Shafter.

The bodies of the dead men are now being brought to Salt Lake for burial. The accident, resulting in the death of the three men and the injury of two, occurred while a gang of carpenters were timbering the tunnel.

Scores to Attend Convention Whose Aim Is to Promote Closer Relations.

Watch out! he's coming! No, not the sand man, but the hotel man, and he will be here in force by noon today.

No unnecessary alarm should be felt, however, for, after all, the hotel man, like a certain famed gentleman, isn't always as black as he is painted, and the hotel man on this occasion is coming with his best clothes on, with an even more cheerful smile and happy "How are you?" and with the main object of talking over the betterment of hotel conditions throughout the west. That's why he is going to get the glad hand.

At 12:30 today a special train is due to arrive over the Denver & Rio Grande carrying thirty delegates to the hotel men's convention, while the train from the north and west will also bring attendants. Those coming on the special train and who represent the Denver Hotelkeepers' association and the Rocky Mountain Hotel association are: S. F. The special train will be met at the depot by a committee from the local hotel men and Mayor Bradford. In the evening the visitors will be guests at the Orpheum.

Tuesday will be devoted to a business session in the forenoon, a special organ recital in the afternoon and an elaborate banquet at the Commercial club in the evening.

On Wednesday the business work will be completed in the forenoon, and the afternoon spent at Saltair.

MANY THINGS ALL WRONG

William Thurston Brown Finds Fault With Nearly Every Institution in America Today.

The cases of the two Russians, Rudowitz and Pouter, who are extrajudicially being sought by the czar's government, again formed the subject of a public meeting at the Unitarian hall last night, following the arrival of the Russian refugees at the Salt Lake theatre last Monday night.

At the meeting last night William Thurston Brown was the principal speaker, and under the topic "The Revolutionary Struggle in Russia: What It Means for the World," he found the guise for a bitter arraignment of the czar's government, the public press, other institutions and individuals of the United States, as well as an exposition of Socialistic and nihilistic doctrine.

The speaker found considerable fault with the speeches made by some of those invited to address the mass meeting of Monday night, asserting that although speaking on the cases of the two Russian "political refugees," they were not proper for the occasion, and that the evidence of the cases.

Mr. Brown had little to find worthy of comment in the present day America, but found his chief fault with the struggle of the socialistic forces, is fighting for.

"It is not significant," he said, "that it is not the Russian revolution, but the socialistic revolution of today are finding their ground for hope and cheer? Not even the revolutionary spirits of America are finding their ground in the struggle here. The most heroic deeds of the past fifty years have not been done in America. The Russian revolution is a mere shadow of divine daring, have been done on the other side of the ocean and not here. Indeed, American literature cannot compare with Russian literature in vital quality. American drama bears no comparison with European drama. Where are the names to find in the Russian literature to be spoken of in the same breath with Tolstoi, Kropotkin, Turgeniev, Ibsen, Karl Marx, August Bebel, Madame Breshkovsky, Tchaikovsky and a host of others who have been stirring the world's life as no one of their American contemporaries has done."

GIRL IS ATTACKED.

Victim of Assault With Weapon in Hands of Thug.

Little eleven-year-old Blanche Wallace, living 922 South Eighth East street, was the victim of an assault last night shortly after 11 o'clock. She had been caring for several children at a neighbor's house while the parents were at the theatre, and while returning home, and having in her company a younger girl, a man struck her down with some missile, supposedly a revolver.

The incident occurred in front of the residence at 29 East Ninth South street. Immediately after the blow, the girls' screams attracted the attention of the neighbors, and the assailant, but before they could get out, the man had disappeared. Detectives Wheeler, Schultze and Janier Ripley answered the call, but were unable to locate the man who committed the assault. The girl, who received a scalp wound, was taken to her home.

Among Educational Institutions

The educational institutions of Salt Lake have recovered from the effects of the holidays and are again running smoothly. A number of changes and improvements have been made at some of the schools.

At Fowler Hall a manual training course for the girls of the school has been inaugurated under the direction of Miss Gertrude Carleton of Lexington, Mass., who she has been connected with the manual training department of the public schools.

A student body council has also been organized at Rowland Hall for the purpose of assisting in the government of the school. Dora Bradley has been elected president, Netta Powell, vice president, and Alice Nutting, secretary and treasurer. Miss Abbie Bishop has been secured as house mother. The students are now busy preparing for the mid-year examinations.

Mrs. Jennings will give her concluding lecture on Venetian art next Friday, and Mrs. William Iglehart will give a series of lectures on English literature during the coming term. Her first subject will be on "The Servant in the House," the social morality play. The enrollment in the English literature course is the largest in the history of the school.

Miss Colburn entertained at dinner for Miss Lucile Clark last week. Miss Clark is a former student and has been at Wellesley during the past year.

The second term began at All Hallows on Tuesday last with a full attendance.

NATION AND STATE.

Dr. Buxton Says Every Man Is Sovereign in Society.

Rev. Albert Buxton preached Sunday morning on "A Righteous Commonwealth" at the Central Christian church. Dr. Buxton took for his text "Righteousness exalteth a nation," and added to the Biblical text a text from what he called "our political Bible—the Declaration of Independence." Dr. Buxton said in part:

"Our nation and our state—every commonwealth in the world—is based on that fundamental statement of the Declaration of Independence that 'all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.'"

"This is true, not because this fundamental document proclaims it, but because God wrote it into the very creation of man. The primary fact is that every man is a sovereign in society, whether society be a club, a state or a church. Every king is an equal subject—every subject an equal sovereign; every priest is a simple disciple and every disciple an equal priest. Our fathers wrought their way through Atlantic storm and winter snows to found a state without a king and a church without a bishop."

"The foundation of our commonwealth is the old New England town meeting, where every freeman had an equal voice and vote. Our nation is too large for this simple democracy. No hall can contain the voices of our people, and their voice heard. But representative government is a departure from civic freedom, except where the representatives seek not their own wisdom or will but the wisdom and will of their constituents—act, whatever their own views, as they believe the people would act were the question submitted to them."

"No nation is safe that does not bow to the will of the majority. The first violation of the rights of the minority is the first step toward anarchy. No state, in lodge or church, is an open door to extreme and destructive anarchy."

He also leaves thirty-one grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

There have been no changes in the faculty. It has been decided to give the entertainment scheduled for Christmas on Washington's birthday. The interclass basketball series is rapidly drawing to a close with the seniors still in the lead. Tryouts for commissioned and non-commissioned officers of the cadet corps will be held during the week if the weather permits.

At St. Mary's Academy.

The opening feature of the school work at St. Mary's academy was the debate between the members of the senior class on the psychology. The debate was regarded in the light of an examination of the course. The coming term is expected to be the most interesting in the school's history.

The junior class of the Gorman academy has elected Arthur Davis president for the year. The candidates for the basketball teams are working hard and the teams will be selected during the coming week. Dr. Byron W. King will give a series of lectures on Shakespeare during the term, and several debates have been arranged by the faculty. Many social functions are being planned for the term.

The Collegiate society opened last Monday with the largest attendance in the history of the school. The faculty entertained the student body at dinner on Friday and the dinner was followed by a reception and a dance. The examinations for the first term will be held next week.

MUCH WORK FOR CITY COUNCIL

Must Make Up for Too Much Oratory on Saloon Question.

The city council at its regular session this evening will have a tremendous amount of routine business to tackle, the result of the dilatoriness of the two sessions of last week. The meetings of Monday and Thursday evenings last were taken up with the saloon license ordinance and not even the authorized expenditures were put through. There is now on hand an accumulation of business that will take a special meeting in addition to tonight's session to clear up.

The intercepting sewer outlet will be tackled if it is possible to get to it. The people of the west side are impatient that the pumps have not been started and the new intercepting sewer put in operation. The board of public works and the councilmen must have known that the outlet pipe was not being satisfactorily laid. The intercepting sewer was finished long ago and the machinery installed in the pumping station. In the meantime fifteen miles of sewer have been lying in the ground idle.

Councilman T. H. Black has become impatient of the delays in this work and has prepared a resolution the effect of which will be to make the work out of the hands of the contractor and repair the twenty-five leaks by force account, charging the cost of the same up to the city. Another resolution will provide for starting the pumps at once, leaving the test of the outlet pipe until later.

The final passage of the saloon ordinance was set for tonight. The ordinance has been rewritten to cover the hundred and one amendments made at the meetings of the council and this new form may call for much oratory.

The salary question will take up some time. The commission has recommended that the city building inspector, Walter J. Frazier, pure food inspector, and Frank Godbe receive increases, but will decline to recognize any more of the many who want more money.

WORKING FOR GOOD ROADS

Committee Will Meet Tonight to Prepare Final Plans for Big State Convention.

The good roads committee appointed by former Governor John C. Cutler will meet this evening and the final program of the good roads convention, which will be held in the armory hall Jan. 14 and 15, will be arranged. It has been decided that it will be necessary and advisable to have a permanent good roads organization in Utah and no cases of smallpox and only one case of chickenpox were reported to the convention during the meetings. As outlined by Governor Cutler's committee the organization will consist of a president, a secretary, a treasurer and an executive committee of five members.

As it is proposed to have a vice president from each county, it is urged that as many counties as possible be represented at the convention. The delegates to the convention will be entertained Wednesday and during their stay at the Commercial club.

At the state convention Governor Spry will deliver the address of welcome on the part of the state and Mayor John S. Bransford on the part of the city.

It is expected that the pardon will be granted. McCandless will be small trouble in getting a pardon as McCandless enjoyed a good reputation in his home town up to the time of the difficulty with Jones. McCandless is now in the city of Lehi, where he is being kept by the sheriff. It has not caused the girl any trouble, but efforts are being made to locate it by the X-rays.
